V. Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims	1-12	YES
	Claims		NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims	1-12	YES
	Claims		NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims	1-12	YES
	Claims		NO

2. Citations and explanations

1. This report refers to the following document:

D1: US-A-5 736 960 (MURPHY JOHN H ET AL.) 7 April 1998 (1998-04-07)

2. D1 discloses a satellite-based navigation method (GPS) for determining the position of a receiver by detecting the signal propagation time between satellites and the receiver (cf. column 2, line 39 to column 3, line 6), the receiver having a precision time reference (cf. precision clock 19, column 4, lines 4-6).

3. The subject matter of claims 1 to 12 differs inter alia in the features indicated in lines 7 (following "wherein") to 13 of claim 1 and in the characterizing part of claim 2. The subject matter of these claims is therefore novel (PCT Article 33(2)).

4. The subject matter of claims 1 to 12 relates to the problem of determining the reliability of signal propagation times from the GPS satellites, which can be vitiated, for example, by reflection. None of the search report citations makes any reference to this problem.

Claims 1 and 2 give different solutions to this problem. Claim 1 relates to the use of the reception time as test criterion, whereas in claim 2 the position determined represents the test criterion. Neither of the two solutions is known from the documents cited in the search report.

The subject matter of claims 1 to 12 therefore meets the requirements of inventive step under PCT Article 33(3).

5. The subject matter of claims 1 to 12 also meets the requirements of industrial applicability under PCT Article 33(4).
